WAVE OF CRIME AROUSES DOUGLAS

Series of Burglaries Occurs; Tax Rate Reduced, Schools Improved and 15 New Ones Established.

Douglas, Ariz., July 28.—A wave of crime which was intensified within the last few days, has aroused the people to such an extent that a largely signed petition will be presented to the council at its next meeting requesting that the city police force be increased. The final straw was added when the Gadsden bar was burglarized and $150 secured; the Douglas Drug company entered, a small amount secured from the cash register and the safe so battered in attempts to open it that a new one will have to be purchased; the Douglas Grocery stolen and a small amount of cash taken from the register; two suit cases robberies reported from a carnival company; a number of purses snatched from women on the streets after midnight. The three burglaries mentioned occurred in one night. The petition has the backing of the recently organized Douglas club.

Assistant state engineer Parker has arrived in this city to commence work on the state highway between Douglas and Bisbee, which is now in a deplorable condition owing to the wear and tear of the formerly smoothly oiled surface into chuck holes. The work will be started early next week, the first step being to remove all oil from the surface, after which plowing, dragging and rolling will place the road in the front rank among the highways of Arizona.

Luis Nicola, a Mexican, charged with having stabbed an American in Colorado, was arrested here by deputy sheriff Harris and constable Hayhurst, just as he was about to cross the line into Mexico. He has been taken to Tombstone.

It will cost Cochise county approximately $22,000 to maintain public schools during the next school year. The tax rate this year has been reduced from 55 cents to 45 cents, the $100,000, owing to the large increase in the county assessment roll. There were 104 teachers employed in the county last year. This year there will be ten more. Eight new school districts have been formed by county supervisors at Hotchkiss. Fifteen new school buildings were constructed last year in various parts of the county.

Douglas has the honor of harboring secretary of war Lindley M. Garrison and major generals Wood and Alshire for a short time. They arrived here by train by Col. J. F. Guldfoyle, of the ninth cavalry, and his staff. They remained here for 20 minutes and proceeded to Fort Huachuca.

Jack Gatling and Charles Brock have been arrested charged with having smuggled stolen cattle over the line from Sonora and disposed of them on this side of the line. V. A. Young, a local butcher, has also been arrested, charged with having received the stolen livestock. Young claims to have purchased the cattle from a man who exhibits a bill of sale from Manuel Fraxosa for the nine head of steers involved.

John Doan, executor of Julius Hoedt, who died last January in the city jail, has entered suit against the city of Douglas for damages in the sum of $10,000, alleging that the jail was not equipped with beds and that the hardship and exposure experienced by Hoedt were directly responsible for his death.

The Copper City Brewing company has been sued for $20,000 as damages for the death of Edward Sette, on September 29, 1912, when he was fatally injured by being caught in a belt and whirled around in the machinery. Francis S. Sette, administratrix of his estate, is plaintiff.

Commends Senator Fall
Past Imbecility and Present Hesitation in Our Policy Toward Mexico.

SENATOR FALL, of New Mexico, voiced in the upper chamber at Washington yesterday the American doctrine, which is the doctrine of directness and vigor, crowning the grace of common sense.

Senator Fall is a home man and a typical American. He speaks not as a theorist, but as a practical man, next door neighbor to the Mexican problem, knowing its details, profoundly conscious of its present opportunities, and of its ultimate menace. He speaks not in the vague and foolish innuendo of the diplomat, but in the straightforward language of the man of action and achievement.

Senator Fall says in substance, that every day of indolence and indecision with Mexico is a day lost to opportunity and to duty. He says that every unredempted threat is a confession of national weakness that excites contempt of our country in the Mexican mind. He says that if president Taft had done his duty two years ago and one year ago, as the American urged him to do, the Mexican situation would have been solved then with comparative ease, and Mexico would have been at peace today.

Senator Fall intimates that the American does not hesitate to say directly that the present administration lacks a duty and opportunity equally serious.

If we are to be hanging fire and holding our hands and postponing the inevitable with Mexico, then we are simply repeating the weakness and imbecility of the Taft administration and laying up greater trouble for our country.

Day by day the difficulties of dealing with Mexico increase. The habit of revolution is growing on that people. The depreciation of the power and importance of the United States grows likewise with the continuing evidences of our incapacity.

And day by day foreign nations, notably the far reaching and deepening menace of Germany, are becoming more important in the Mexican eye, as the United States grows smaller, and international intrigues and negotiations strengthen the Mexican desire for independence of this government.

To men like senator Fall, living on the dangerous border of this menace, it seems for us now or never with Mexico!

Two years ago Taft could with 10,000 men in two months have imposed the meaning of the United States on Mexico and it would have pacified the people. Today president Wilson, with 20,000 men could bring peace to this distracted country and safety to our own people and to other nations that depend upon us.

Six months from now it may require 200,000 men to face the chaotic Mexico with the vast problem of international complications in her train.

All statesmanship and all common sense of present and future interest dictate a policy of prompt, vigorous and permanent action here.

Touch this Mexican nuzzle lightly and it stings. Grasp it firmly and its sting is gone.—New York American.

The Discontented Girl
Some Are Always Differing From Other People in Everything;

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

DO you know what a wonderfully complicated thing a human being is? Every feature, every portion of your body, every motion you make, reflects your mental organization.

I know a woman past middle life who has always been on the opposite side of every question discussed in her presence.

She was ardent with the orthodox, reverential with the liberal with the narrow, bigoted with the liberal.

Whatever belief any one expressed on any subject she invariably took the other extreme. She loved to disagree with her fellowmen. It was her pastime.

Now, to walk with that woman in silence is to carry on a wordless argument.

You cannot regulate your steps so that you will not offend her. She will be just ahead or just behind you, and if you want to turn to the left, she pulls to the right, or promenade with her is more exhausting than a day's labor.

She is not conscious of it, and would think any one very unkind who said so. She was a restless girl, and she married, believing in domestic life, the goal of her dreams. But she was not happy there and sighed for freedom. She wanted to move, and did move, once, twice, thrice, to different points of the United States. She was discontented with each change. She is today possessed of all comforts and luxuries which life can afford, yet she is the same restless soul. She likes to read, but it is always the book which she does not possess which she craves. If she is in the library with shelves book filled she goes into the garret and hunts in old boxes for a new book.
